Dear Prefix First Name Last Name,

Greetings from St. Elizabeth Ann Seton Men of Action!

As October unfolds, the Sunday readings have been drawing us into a deeper reflection on humility and servant leadership. Jesus' example shows us that leadership is not about power or prestige, but about the willingness to serve others selflessly. In every task we undertake within the Church, we are called to mirror this model of servanthood, ensuring that our actions stem from love and compassion, rather than the desire for recognition.

The story of Bartimaeus and his healings offers a profound reminder: only by humbly acknowledging our spiritual blindness can we fully receive the grace Christ offers. As laity and religious leaders, we are tasked with helping others find their way to this healing light while also continuing to seek it ourselves.

Kindle in all of us the compassion and appreciation for our fellow man to help us serve with humility, striving to reflect Jesus' love in our leadership.

We pray daily that God's grace and blessings may always be upon you.

Your brothers in Christ,

St. Elizabeth Ann Seton Men Of Action
